

CHRIS-CRAFT STINGERS

Welcome to the December, 2013 Newsletter!

Welcome to the newsletter - I hope everyone had a wonderful Thanksgiving.

The holiday seasons are upon us and this is typically the slowest time for the website. In November only 4 Stingers were added to the registry, bringing the total to 643. I expect this to pickup after the beginning of the year.

This month's newsletter includes an article that I've been thinking about for a while. Hope you enjoy!

Until next month,
Han

Evolution of the 31' Chris-Craft Deep-V Hull

Of all of the Stinger hulls built by Chris-Craft, the 31' deep-v hull used in the 312 Stingers seems to have been the most versatile. The history of the 31' hull, parallels the history of the Stinger line itself.

The history of Chris-Craft's 31' deep-v hull begins with the Cary boat company. The owner of Cary was Jean-Claude Simon, an offshore powerboat racer and designer. During the 1970's, Simon would design a 31' deep-v hull for use in offshore racing. One of the features of the Simon designed 31' hull was that it had an increased freeboard for better handling in rough seas.

The 1970s was an exciting time for offshore race boat builders, and one of them, Excalibur, approached Simon about using his 31' deep-v hull for its own boats. Bill Farmer, owner of Excalibur, worked a deal with Simon to use his 31' deep-v hull for a royalty and began building a 31' boat called Excalibur.

But, by the late 1970s, the Excalibur boat company was having money problems. It was at this time that Dick Genth, president of Chris-Craft, approached Bill Farmer. Dick Genth, was a former offshore racer and was looking to expand Chris-Craft with a line of deep-v offshore boats. Genth worked out a deal with Farmer to purchase the rights to use the 31's foot hull.

With the deal in place, Chris-Craft began to build a 31' deep-v boat - this boat was called "Excalibur by Chris-Craft" in some publications, but also showed up in Chris-Craft promotional media as the Excalibur 31. This boat was a cuddy type boat that resembled the later Stinger 312.

In 1980, the Chris-Craft brochures show two Excaliburs - the 31' foot cuddy version continued from 1979, and a new 31' center-console boat. Both of these boats were based on the 31' foot hull originally designed by Jean-Claude Simon.

In the 1981 brochures, the names on the 31' foot deep-v boats changed. Dick Genth started to use the Scorpion name on the 31' foot boats - a name he had used on other, smaller Chris-Craft boats. The cuddy version of the Excalibur was renamed the 312 SL Scorpion, and the center-console was renamed the 311 SL Scorpion OB.

The 1982 brochures show another name change. This time, the 312 SL Scorpion was renamed 312 SL Stinger and the 311 SL Scorpion OB was renamed the 311 VF Scorpion OB. Note that 1982 was the year that Dick Genth and a group of investors bought the sport-boat division from Chris-Craft.

The names of both the cuddy and center-console boats stayed the same until 1985. It was at this point that Chris-Craft was redesigning all of the Stingers and adding new versions. In 1985, the 312 SL Stinger remained, but two new versions were added. The first new version was a 312 Competition which saw a few cosmetic changes but also a choice of more powerful engines. The second new version was a 314 S Stinger which was a 312 with outboard motors - with the engines moved outside of the boat, the cockpit ran all of the way to the transom.

The 311 VF Scorpion also saw the addition of a new model - the 313 VF Scorpion. While the outboard motors were hung off of the transom on the 311s, the outboard engines on the 313s were attached to a special bracket which itself was attached to the transom.

By 1986, the 312 Competition had been dropped from the brochures. A new model was introduced, the 312 SL LTD - changes were cosmetic only. The 314 S, the 312 SL, the 311 VF and 313 VF continued.

In 1987, the 312 Fittipaldi Equipe was introduced - a special version designed with help from race car driver Emerson Fittipaldi. It's most distinctive feature was that it was painted red. Names for the other 31' models were changed to remove letters from the model names. Thus the 312 SL Stinger became the 312 Stinger, the 314 S Stinger became the 314 Stinger, the 311 VF Scorpion became the 311 Scorpion and the 313 VF Scorpion became the 313 Scorpion.

By 1988, Chris-Craft was having serious money problems – and by the end of the year would declare bankruptcy. Chris-Craft, however, was in the middle of completely redesigning the Stinger line. The number of boats built from the 31' deep-v hulls were reduced. Gone were the 314 Stinger and the 312 Fittipaldi Equipe. The 311 Scorpion was renamed the 311 Stinger and the 313 Scorpion was renamed the 313 Stinger.

By 1989 - the last year the Stingers were built - there were three boats built off of the 31' hull – the 312 Stinger, the 311 Stinger and the 313 Stinger.

Jean-Claude Simon's 31' foot hull was truly a versatile hull. In addition to Cary, Excalibur and Chris-Craft, Wellcraft would also go on to use the hull in their line of boats. The 31' hulls were used for cuddy boats with I/Os, cuddy boats with outboards, and center-consoles boats. The 31' hull would also be lengthened by Chris-Craft and used as a basis for their 39' Stinger 390 X and Scorpion 390 SL boats.

The history of the 31' foot hull is an interesting one – I'm reminded of it every time I open up the 1980s Chris-Craft brochure where one will find the nod to Simon: "Hull designed by Jean-Claude Simon".

We rewired the entire boat about 3 years ago. This season we replaced the manifolds So the boat has been maintained and is in good working order I would characterize the finishes of the boat as "worn around the edges" but as hinges and snaps corrode we replace them The boat has a working head & shower Galley/ microwave/ref/sink TV stereo/cd/sat system/ ipod dock deck compass GPS

Model: 1988 202
Location: Rochester, NY
Asking Price: $8,000

I have a super rare 88' chris craft stinger 202 for sale. It has 165 hours on the hull. This boat is like brand new. I literally just finished it. This is the coolest fiberglass speed boat that Chris Craft ever made and was made for the Miami Vice tv series. They were built in very limited quantities and there are only a handful of these left. There is a website dedicated to them, I know of no other boats that have a cult following. I built this one to be better than it was originally. It is an attention grabber. I get compliments on it wherever I am and have had numerous offers on it even before I restored it. I'm selling it because I'm getting married and need the money. I just put well over $7500 into it this summer alone and have well over 12K into it total. I had planned on using it but sadly it needs to go. Weddings are insanely expensive and I'm finding out the hard way. I replaced the motor and outdrive. It has an OMC 4.3L v-6 and an OMC cobra outdrive. Next, I gutted the boat completely and installed new marine ply, fiberglass, carpet, custom built seats and engine cover and had everything professionally upholstered. I installed a new GT steering wheel, a Sony marine cd/mp3/satellite radio which sounds awesome, a new bilge pump, new fuel lines, new aluminum swivel/slider/adjustable height seat posts and new Tracker style folding seats. The interior work cost over $4K alone but was well worth it. It came out awesome. I had a 4bbl. Rochester carb installed which brings the HP up to 205 and will do over 60MPH. I had the pin striping re-done on the boat and matching Shorelandr trailer. I replaced the tires, lights, and started to strip and repaint the entire trailer. It also has a new deep cycle battery. There are 2 swim platforms molded into the stern that have teak foot boards and they were also refinished and look great. I also just purchased a new trailerable cover for it. I even just filled the tank with ethanol free 93 octane fuel. I'm probably forgetting a lot. If you're interested you must include the words eighty-eight chris craft to get a response due to spammers. I know it's the wrong time of the year to sell a boat and I could get more for it this spring which is why I priced it where it is. It is well worth the money. Chris craft builds the very best boats around and this one is better than new.

Model: 1988 260

The interior is pretty decent with most of it having been redone the interior cabin needs finished. Comes with a 10,000 lb Fiber steel lift. I have owned this boat since 1997 and used it a lot. it is far from perfect but is in ready to use condition. $11,500 or may trade for muscle car, UTV, diesel truck.
